

1. Karakalpak and Kazakh:

“Iyttin’ quyrig’ı jerge tiygende.”

→ When the dog's tail reaches the ground.

Meaning: Achieving something is impossible.

2. Uzbek:

“Dunyoni suv bossa topig’iga ham chiqmaydi.”

→ When flooding arises, he will be calmly sleeping.

Meaning: It’s used toward a person who is ignorant of what’s happening around them.

1. Example: My family wanted to plant watermelon seeds in a very narrow field, and at that time, my grandma told us, “Of course, when the dog's tail reaches the ground...” referring to the fact that it’s almost impossible because (1) of our narrow land and (2) because water is scarce in our area.
2. Example: My black kitty is a lazy friend; he never bothers when I’m speaking to him, or when I try to cuddle with him. He is definitely the type of cat that when flooding arises, he will be calmly sleeping.
