

Verbal: - I got the food I desired, which was amazing, especially after waiting for so long in the line at FOCO.

Explanation: The quality of the food is the main focus (figure), while the wait becomes the background that builds the story. I see that there is an End-Goal effect in this sentence, as we are putting emphasis on what we achieved as a result, not actual process.

Non-verbal/visual:

Explanation: A woman's face is the main thing we see (figure), while the flowers and a butterfly aren't that visible until we pay close attention, thus they are in the background.
